

“Learning to read and write is critical to a child’s success in school and later in life. One of the best predictors of whether a child will function competently in school and go on to contribute actively in our increasingly literate society is the level to which a child progresses in reading and writing” (National Association for the Education of Young Children).

My project, “Ready, Set, Write!” has allowed me to purchase writing supplies to grow the opportunity for writing in my classroom. Having inviting materials will encourage my students to write in a variety of formats, such as stories, letters to friends, books, cards, signs, and more. These materials will also allow me to differentiate the writing instruction for my students and will help children develop whatever skills they are developing from letter formation to story writing.

Thank you so much for making it possible for me to purchase these materials for my classroom. It has certainly made a difference for my students this year and will continue to impact my classroom for years to come!

Thanks again!

Angela Fallaw
Johnston Elementary
Kindergarten