Hear Ye, Hear Ye, Read All About United States History!

I purchased Social Studies Weekly newspapers for 5th grade to utilize during shared reading, guided reading, and independent reading time. These newspapers were used to introduce and reinforce social studies topics in 5th grade classrooms. They were also used as resources for research, inquiry, etc.

Students enjoy using the newspapers to learn about history. There are so many ways we are able to utilize these resources and implement our standards more effectively as a result. Social Studies Weekly is just one of the most interesting ways we have found to encourage our children to read informational text while providing engaging literacy activities that allow them to master various literacy and skills while acquiring social studies content.
