Communication at the Critter Clinic

What a fun and educational time my students have had boosting their communication skills through the Critter Clinic! They have loved the interactive activities that change with each season. They never know what they may find behind the locked doors and are always eager to work on their individual targets through this activity. Even my older boys love this activity! The mini objects have also been used with other therapy activities and have enhanced my sensory bin collection. The SLP subscription for online games and parent activities has also been very helpful and engaging. Both the Critter Clinic and the subscription have made it easy to celebrate seasonal holidays while customizing individual activities across grade levels. I'm so thankful for this grant and for your work as a foundation. As each new material was introduced, I expressed this to my students: "There is a group of grownups in our county who love students and want to buy things for you all to make learning fun. I wrote something called a grant to let them know about the things I would like to buy that would be fun for you guys, and they gave me the money to buy this stuff for us!" Their eyes light up and cute little grins appear on their faces when they hear that grownups they don't even know care about them. So thank you from the Speech Crew at WEP. We appreciate you so much!
